Electronic Document Management
WORKFLOW OF THE YEAR
SCHERING DO BRASIL

Communication and a focus on final results. These are the two main premises underpinning the organization by “Schering do Brasil” of events geared to launches, research, and scientific studies bringing together many employees, areas and departments. These needs have been provided for through the implementation of a Workflow system in the company’s Intranet, thereby allowing access through the local network or VPN. A great deal of information required in the work undertaken by users comes from outside sources, and such information is integrated with the Workflow. Thanks to this system, combined with others, it is possible to sift through data and make them available through graphs to the managers of the company, thus rendering the decision-making process easier and supporting investments in events. Productivity has been enhanced due to the simultaneous access to information and documents. The time required for the dissemination of information has also been shortened. Once they have been finalized, these events become a benchmark for the planning of new activities. At present, the system caters to roughly 280 users.
